

A man who suffered severely from irritable bowel syndrome for 12 years and a dysfunction of his testicles - he said he was desperate, that there was no cure but he believed that Jesus could heal him, he wanted that. He did not make eye contact. God revealed to me loneliness through his illness, shame from the culture, a lot of grief related to his illness. I shared the heart of God for him, told him God revealed to me in advance his case so God's eyes were on him and God was involved in his longing and faith for healing. The team members got the word depression, which resonated together. Together we took authority over the IBS by addressing it and sending it away, changing the term to "I've Been Saved". We prayed for the IBS to leave his body, the person did not yet know how to take authority over it himself, we helped and encouraged him to do so for the coming time. God made it known to me that part of the emotional pain affected with this disease was that he didn't know fatherly love (including not His Father's love). Team members prayed against the spirit of depression, false shame, loneliness - we had the same impressions. He noticed nothing, felt nothing changed. Then we started to release God's love for him. We told him that he came with faith and this faith was justified, I told him what God showed me more: he was bold. I encourage him to stretch out for the Father's love for Him the coming days, he got that. Team Members heard 'unforgiveness' and when they asked if he had to forgive others he said no (and I also heard no from God). I heard the word was true but he had to forgive himself - he confirmed. We asked him to do that. After that I spoke Sonship and fertility over his life, in all aspects. He experienced no instant healing (which confused him a little bit) but learned and encouraged a lot, and had loved the prayer (checked). This was someone with more going on, but so thankful he came, got out and I saw a little smile before he left. We encouraged him to come back, so that he didn't stand alone.

A man on dialysis for several years after his kidneys were permanently damaged from a stroke. He was familiar with speaking to his organs and authority in Christ (I checked/asked him). He needed a creative miracle he said, we agreed. As soon as I spoke to his body in Jesus name I became sweating hot from God's fire, I released the fire of the Holy Spirit over him, especially over his spine and kidneys. I saw God asking him to strengthen his spine (proverbial) in overcoming this damage - He knew Sonship but was challenged to grow in it, in realizing His/his authority, that was one part the fire hitting his back (that's how I saw it). I have no idea what I said but when we asked what he noticed he said he saw a picture; his kidneys were touched with a ray of light (the other fire part). And he felt a lot better. I got something crazy: to teach his kidneys the gospel - and I did. It was as if the kidneys didn't want to listen (I heard them talking and refusing to heal) because they had some other agreement than healing by Jesus Christ. I was determined by an inner conviction (a lie acquired due to having had the stroke) that he had to discard. "God test my kidneys" Your innermost core. At the same time, team members were determined to ask about the cause of the stroke, there was something with it. He said he gave a testimony to Roman Catholic priests and then got the stroke (fell to the ground on the spot) and had always seen it as a spiritual attack/retribution to his testimony. We saw the same (without knowing the legal ground but he was right). He had seen a demonic power when it happened (a black figure) saying 'this is gonna kill you'. Now I understood the intimidation his kidneys were under. I asked if he could tell his kidneys this was a lie, not allowing himself 1% doubt, intimidation. There was another breakthrough! We took authority over the powers that were involved, broke the lie, and I saw him getting new kidneys. The team members saw the same; God using a 3d poke and making new kidneys for him. They declared that. He is not there yet (I saw that it is happening, not done, he has to pick up his authority further now) but he is almost there and here we are going to hear a testimony of new kidneys, I know for sure, just a matter of time :-) showed it). She herself was thinking about a connection to stress. I saw with Papa that breast cancer was a manifestation of the spirit of fear and she had authority over that in prayer for 5 years with success, until covid broke out (also fear). Team members asked her again when she got it, then she made the link to her mother: she got cancer the year her mother died. I saw a ghost moving houses there - searching another place. I asked her if her mother had any panic- and anxiety disorders, which she confirmed with "oh definitely, she was always panicked and scared!" A team member asked if it really was cancer (some things are mistaken for cancer), she replied that this was the doctor's result in 2014 - breast cancer without metastases and she had check ups since then. Her doctor was open-minded so did not pressure into chemo, etc. Then we knew enough, we prayed. She experienced a tremendous anointing from God flowing over her head as we prayed and a tingling sensation, what we said resonated for her. A team member broke off the orphan spirit, which was very powerful. We broke a soul bond with her mother and we took authority over the spirit of fear. I spoke also to her breasts to function (what to do/what not). We took God's word and said to her 'you are healed' and I saw that too: she needed deliverance, not healing (it manifested as cancer). I asked God to show her where she opened the door to fear last year (which she in the meantime acknowledged). Only after the prayer ended, we saw that door and we closed it over her - in prayers. That was also spot on. She said she was deeply touched by God, we saw that too. I realised she was lacking love (fear back is lack of love in a part of your system, 1 John 4:18) and told her what God showed me about her; how delighted He was to her about her being such a warrior with and in Him. And how awesome she was right on track. I gave her a hint to ask someone for a hug, which she understood 😊 She hung up full of gratitude, writing everything down, completely encouraged and I believe back on her awesome track of overcoming breast cancer.

Immediately when she spoke I heard/saw from God 'spirit of fear/panic'. Woman who had breast cancer for 7 years and chosen not to be treated with chemo and surgery. But with a prayer group together she had taken authority over it, which had diminished it for five years in a row. She proclaimed verses about her body every day. Since covid was there, the cancer had grown (scan

As soon as she came up Papa said it was about a demonic stronghold. She told us she had tinnitus for 2 months now, not an audible audio sound but whistling. She told herself that she was praying with God about the root, she said, she didn't search the result as not spiritual. A team member asked if she was on medication, she was; antidepressants. The doctor had mentioned tinnitus as a possible side effect, I felt that demonic effect here. She had tried to build it off when the tinnitus started, which failed, so now she wanted a cure for the tinnitus. We decided to first send the depression away (and ask revelation about that) and until the time that the reduction could not yet succeed, we bind the powers of the spirit of pharmacy that came with the pills. God revealed to us the reason for her depression (past father), she came up with that too (unhealed trauma), we pronounced healing on her soul wounds here. She was moved by tears, grateful too. She experienced a difference of noise from 8 to 2 after our prayers (I asked). I wasn't satisfied, I wanted zero. I saw one more thing: I saw that the murmurs in her ears were negative words from her father that were not intended for her as a daughter of God. I covered these words with the blood of Jesus, broke them off her and commanded the ears to accept the sound of the peace of Jesus and only that. She hung up with great gratitude.

A lady from East Anglia who had an 'inoperable tooth infection'. Her only option was to have the tooth taken out, which she didn't want, even though it was causing severe pain up her face. We prayed several times and the pain went from 10 to zero - no pain at all. She was able to clench her teeth and touch her face by the tooth- no pain. Thank you Lord.

A man from the Netherlands who phoned through from hospital and was about to go under open heart surgery in a few days time, he said he's had problems with his aorta valve since he was born but recently it's got worse and worse and he couldn't walk more than 10 metres without fainting etc so as we both prayed we were led to pray for a creative miracle for him and he got up and started walking about and seemed okay but still felt the pain in his chest. Then he told us afterwards that he believes God will heal him before the operation is due but didn't tell anybody about that. Then his wife came in to visit him and she said the same thing. So he said he would let us know how it goes, I felt bold enough to prophesy over him that he and his wife will be on team next year.

A lady from the UK. Bad asthma, weak, can only walk a short distance; broke the generational curse from her grandmother. She said she was healed and left very happy. Asked how long she had been a Christian, 'Since I was born'.

A lady from the UK asked for breakthroughs from trauma, and health and to feel His love for her. After we had prayed she had a passage from the Lord; Jeremiah 29 'I know the plans I have for you....' and we gave her Malachi 4 v 2. She left overjoyed.

A lady living in the US asked for healing from 'the moving things causing pain' inside her, starting about 1 year with no obvious cause. We reminded her that Jesus died for our sicknesses on the cross. Prayed, and she started to praise and sing and pray herself. The joy was wonderful.

A lady from Canada. Multiple Sclerosis; wheelchair user. Believer for c. 2 years; has had prayer before. Had already repented of, and renounced, various occult activities etc., but one very significant thing was revealed which still needed to be dealt with – so we did!
